LITIGATION AND TASK FORCE MEMBERSHIP:

- 2020, In People v. Micah Kimball, Iris and her partner, Dru Nielsen, exonerated Mr. Kimball after a two-week jury trial during Covid. Mr. Kimball was falsely accused and charged with Murder in the 1st Degree. Mr. Kimball served 67 days in jail before Iris and Dru convinced the judge to release him. In the 10 months leading up to trial, Iris and Dru found that the Denver prosecutors withheld the expert opinions of both the Deputy Director of the Crime Lab and the Lead Homicide Detective. They had determined that Mr. Kimball's fiancé's single gunshot wound was self-inflicted. The Judge sanctioned the prosecutors for their misconduct.
- 2019, Served as co-lead counsel in the Legal Center v. Bicha, et al. since 2011 and obtained a comprehensive Consent Decree in 2019 with the State of Colorado overhauling the competency system. Case involved a federal lawsuit over provision of competency evaluations to pre-trial detainees and was extensively litigated over eleven years. Received an Award of Special Recognition in 2013 and Team of the Year Award in 2019 from the Colorado Lawyers Committee in recognition of the work in this matter. Legal Center v. Bicha, et al., No. 11-CV2285-BNB (D. Colo. 2011).
- 2016, In People v. Thomas Fallis, Iris and her partner, Dru Nielsen, exonerated Mr. Fallis after a three-week jury trial. Mr. Fallis was falsely accused, indicted, and charged with Murder in the Second Degree. The case was fueled by the media and family members who caused the case to be re-opened in 2014 after the death was ruled a suicide in 2012 by five law enforcement agencies whom investigated the case.
- 2015-2016, Lead counsel in Center for Legal Advocacy v. Bicha, et al., in the Motion to Re-Open Settlement Agreement. Resolved motion without hearing by revisions to the settlement agreement to include an independent consultant to be paid by the Colorado Department of Human Services to ensure compliance with the Agreement. Center for Legal Advocacy v. Bicha, et al, No. 11-CV-2285- NYW.

- 2015, Co-lead counsel in the Castorena-Mares v. Judge Marcucci and the Denver County Court to cure the illegal bond setting practices in Denver County Court. The County Court judges were sued resulting from setting bond on misdemeanor cases in chambers without a hearing or argument by defense counsel in violation of Colorado Law.
- 2014, Lead counsel pursuing enforcement of the Victim Rights Act for the Autabee family. This unique representation centered on the Autabee family's position against the prosecution's pursuit of the death penalty of their son's killer, Edward Montour. The family requested that the prosecution allow Montour to receive a sentence without the possibility of parole and filed a motion to be permitted to testify as to the request for a life sentence. People v. Montour, Douglas County District Court, No. 02-CR-782.
- 2012, In People v. Tyler Sanchez, Iris successfully convinced the prosecution to dismiss Mr. Sanchez' case after three years of protracted and complex litigation. Mr. Sanchez is a developmentally disabled young man, who was wrongly accused of committing a serious crime, and who falsely confessed to the crime, after being interrogated by multiple police officers over a two-day period in which he was in custody and not permitted to contact his parents. People v. Sanchez, Douglas County District Court, No. 09-CR-445.
- 2008, Iris Eytan was named to the group of Colorado state officials tasked with researching and rewriting Colorado's Competency Statute, HB 08-1392, which directs how and when mental incompetency is raised and evaluated. The bill became law in 2008. The group remains active, pursuing additional changes to the statute.
- 2007, In People v. Eugene Zuniga, the court determined that Colorado failed to provide timely court-ordered competency hearings and evaluations for 81 county-jail inmates whose competency to stand trial was in question. As a special prosecutor for the case, Iris forced the State to properly fund the programs and facilities needed for those inmates to get proper care. Following this decision, she was appointed as special counsel to the court – reporting on the treatment of the mentally ill in the criminal justice system. People v. Zuniga, Denver County District Court, No. 06-CR-999.
- 2004, With seven other attorneys, Iris created a task force on behalf of the Colorado Lawyers Committee to defend individuals at the State Hospital in Pueblo who pled Not Guilty by Reason of Insanity. For this role, she and her colleagues were awarded the Colorado Lawyers Committee “Community Contribution Award.”
